[REDACTED] and assorted Philadelphia hoodlums. The poker game is a well known happening which enjoys police protection. Stakes sometimes run as high as 20-40-80.

[REDACTED]
the Strand is in fact only a front for the operation and principally runs the restaurant/bar operation. Plans have been discussed for sale of the Strand to a northern New Jersey group, not identified to target. This is contemplated to take place after the November 5th gambling referenda. The assumption is that the referenda will pass. [REDACTED] has never had any personal wealth of his own and is solely dependant on "connections".

b6

Target allèdges that the Strand will make a move for a casino site, and plans construction of two towers on the premises as well as construction of a ground floor room which could accomodate a casino.

Solomon to Take Over Strand

By ELEANOR LILLESAND
Press Staff Writer

ATLANTIC CITY — The Strand Motel, located on the oceanfront between Boston and Providence avenues, and closed since Nov. 25, won't remain closed too long, Emanuel Solomon said Tuesday.

Solomon, original owner and builder of the 150-unit complex, confirmed that Sandpiper Associates "did default and I'm reclaiming the stock of the Strand."

The hotelman said he will again be operating the motel, personally, and that maintenance repair work has already started this week. Solomon said he will open the hotel as soon as all repairs, refurbishing and painting have been completed.

"There's a lot of work to be done to get it in shape," he said adding that he hoped to have it open before spring.

Since the motel was built in 1956, it has changed hands twice. Solomon operated the motel in 1956, it has changed hands twice. Solomon operated the motel and its 250-seat restaurant until 1969, at which time he sold the building for $1.6 million to a Philadelphia-based investment group called Bristol Associates, headed by Ronald Raiton.

The Bristol group's takeover resulted in bankruptcy late in 1971. A second Philadelphia-based investment group, Sandpiper Associates, came into the picture early in 1972 and offered a reorganization plan to lift the floundering resort hostelry from bankruptcy.

At this point, resort banker Joseph F. Bradway Sr., who along with others in the 3400 Boardwalk Corp., owns the ground the motel complex is built upon, and had leased it to Solomon in 1955 under a 99 year lease, offered to buy the motel for approximately $1 million less than the already pending offer made by the Sandpiper Associates.

But the maneuver to gain total ownership of the land and buildings was rebuked by federal referee in bankruptcy, Judge William S. Lipkin. He declared the approval of such an acquisition would be "unconscionable."

In May 1972, Lipkin gave final approval to the Sandpiper Associates reorganization plan. But litigation has continued to date because Bradway's attorney appealed the bankruptcy court's approval to a higher federal court.

Originally, Sandpiper Associates was made up of two businessmen and two lawyers, all of Philadelphia and initially was headed by a Ventnor Businessman, Phillip Forman and Albert Forman along with lawyers Donald DiAgui and Michael Del Cella remain in the group but William Levinson of Ventnor, sold his interest in the Strand to Albert Forman, in February 1973.

An informal report to Lipkin on the completion of the Sandpiper Associates reorganization plan had been scheduled for Monday. Due to a death in Lipkin's family, the court hearing has been adjourned until Dec. 16, said Milton Freed, court appointed receiver.

Solomon, returning to Florida on Tuesday to wind up his affairs there, declined to discuss any further details of his takeover of the motel, preferring to wait until after Dec. 16.

Investigation was instituted into captioned motel on 10/9/74. The fact that it reputedly was going to change ownership, that the casino gambling referenda was expected to pass on 11/5/74, and that the hotel had previously housed a hoodlum element, principally from Philadelphia, were all factors relating to this investigation.

Considerable background was developed on the group running the bar, as well as a complete background of previous ownership. Prior to gambling referenda's resounding defeat,

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] the Strand. These individuals have extensive background and association with hoodlum elements. As all investigation has been completed and the Strand is now closed, it is recommended this case be closed administratively. Nightly WhirlManny on His Way Back to The Strand

By TED SCHALL

Those of you who have been 'round these parts for some time will remember the Strand Hotel at Pennsylvania and the wood. It was operated by one of the nicest guys you'd ever wanta meet — "MANNY" SOLOMON. Then came the fire that destroyed the hotel and the subsequent building of the Strand Motel by Manny at Boston Avenue. He developed the restaurant of the motel into one of "THE" places to go for luncheon, dinner and into the wee small hours of the yawning.

The town has missed Manny for quite a few years, but all is brightness and light again, for beginning April 1 (no foolin') Manny Solomon takes over the Strand again. As we understand it, he will operate it in pretty much the same way as before and the restaurant will again feature those enticing luncheon specials. Welcome home, Manny.
